Professor Alistair Sambell is Vice Principal (Academic) at Edinburgh Napier University. His academic background is in electronic engineering, with research interests that include the design of microwave antennas. Alistair has also published on innovative assessment in engineering. Alistair has served on the QAA engineering benchmarking statement review group, the Institution of Engineering and Technology (IET) degree accreditation panel, and the committee of the Engineering Professors' Council. Alistair serves as the Convenor of Edinburgh Napier's Athena SWAN Self-Assessment Team as well as of the Equality & Diversity Committee.