FRAM	The student has 20 or more credits to achieve (e.g. due to extenuating circumstances, an exceptional attempt or failure of compulsory module) and cannot yet progress to the next stage. (i.e.. they are not deemed eligible for the PD decision.) They are required to address their credit shortfall at the next attempt, without attendance.	You have not yet successfully completed the modules required to progress to the next academic year of your current course. There are options open to you which may include continuing your studies by possibly transferring to a different programme or attempting to re-sit the assessments on the module(s) required to remain on your current programme. If you select to attempt to re-sit the assessment(s) on the module(s) to remain on your current programme, you will not be expected to attend university and therefore will not be classed as a full-time student during this time. This could affect your eligibility to receive funding such as your Student Loan/Bursary, and may also impact your status relating to council tax. You should now contact your Personal Tutor or Programme Leader to discuss the options available to you. Please note that any module enrolments undertaken for the upcoming trimester are based on the outcome of success at reassessment and will therefore need updated to reflect that you have not progressed to the next academic year of your current course. Please contact your School Office if you have any queries. *If the outcome given in this communication is upsetting for you please be encouraged to access support.
